

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. The heir of Ralph de Kirkham held the land called Whitacre in 1268, rendering 12*l.* yearly, and half a mark at every decease.

UNIVERSIS sanctæ matris, etc., frater W[illelmus] de Tothal¹ sanctæ domus hospitalis sancti Johannis Jerusalem Prior humilis in Anglia salutem in domino sempiternam. Noverit universitas vestra, nos de communi consilio voluntate et assensu fratrum tocius capituli nostri concessisse et hoc præsentî scripto nostro confirmasse Abbati et Conventui domus beatæ Mariæ de Cokersand et successoribus suis, totam terram et tenementum quam et quod aliquo tempore habuimus cum pertinenciis in Midelhargh; tenenda et habenda dicto Abbati et Conventui et successoribus suis totam dictam terram et tenementum cum pertinenciis de nobis et successoribus nostris sicut prius tenuerunt, liberè, quietè, etc.; reddendo inde amodo annuatim nobis et successoribus nostris duos solidos argenti in festo sancti Michaelis Archiangeli; et in obitu vel amocione seu deposicione cujuscumque Abbatis dictæ domus similiter duos solidos argenti nomine obitus imperpetuum, ubi actenus recipere consuevimus decem et octo denarios per annum tam pro omnibus. In cujus rei, etc. Hiis testibus, etc. Datum in celebracione capituli nostri apud Milcheburne, die sancti Bernabæ Apostoli, anno Regni Regis Edwardi vicesimo septimo. Midelhargh.

Confirmation by William de Tothale, Prior of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem in England, by the common advice and assent of the brethren of their whole Chapter, to the Abbot and Convent of Saint Mary of Cokersand, of a former grant in perpetuity of the whole land and tenement which they have with appurtenances in Medlar;² to hold

² Medlar consisted of one carucate of land, and was held temp. Henry II. and Richard I. by Roger de Hutton (a military tenant of the Barony of Penwortham), in thanage by the service of 8*l.* yearly. According to the Survey of A.D. 1212, Elias de Hutton, son of the said Roger, was nominally the tenant, but Cicely his sister was actually tenant in possession by the grant or feoffment of her father Roger, who had the same under the yearly rent of two shillings, payable at Michaelmas, and likewise rendering two shillings at the decease, removal, or deposition of every Abbot, in lieu of the rent of eighteen pence which they had hitherto rendered yearly for all [services]. Given at the celebration of their Chapter at Melchbourn, on the day of St. Barnabas the Apostle, 27 Edward [I., 11th June, 1299.].

SCIANT, etc., quod ego Gilbertus, filius Rogeri filii Reynfridi dedi, etc., Deo et beatæ Mariæ, etc., totam terram et tenementum de Midelare, scilicet unam Carucatam terræ cum pertineneciis suis, tam in dominicis quam in serviciis, sine aliquo retenemento cum molendino de Grenole et pertineneciis suis, et cum homagiis et serviciis Adæ de Cornay et hæredum suorum, given her this estate in frank marriage with Benedict Gernet, the Master Forester of the county of Lancaster. Benedict Gernet dying in 1206, his widow obtained recognition of her dower in the extensive estates, consisting of 21 carucates of land, attached to the office of Chief Forester. By her he had three sons:—(1) William Gernet, who succeeded to the office in 1206, and dying in 1207, presumably without issue, was succeeded by (2) Sir Roger Gernet his brother, who paid a fine of 60 marks in the latter year to have the bailiwick of the Forest and the land attached to the office. By his wife Quenilda, daughter of Richard, son of Roger, of Lytham and Woodplumpton, he had issue Benedict Gernet, who succeeded to the office of Chief Forester upon his father's death in the year 1252; (3) Vivian Gernet of Caton and Heysham, who died 30 Henry III., leaving a son Roger Gernet of Caton. Soon after the death of Benedict Gernet I., his widow Cicely granted Medlar to the brethren of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem. She married secondly Elias de Stiveton or Steeton, lord of the place of that name in Craven, and thereby conveyed an interest in the town of Medlar to that family. Before the year 1220 the Hospitallers had granted Medlar to Gilbert fitz Reinfred, who in turn gave it to the monks of Cockersand. The said Gilbert appears to have also conveyed his interest as mesne tenant to Reiner de Steeton. Matilda de Steeton, probably the widow of Reiner, confirmed Gilbert fitz Reinfred's grant to Cockersand; but in the year 1235 Elias de Steeton, who was probably Reiner and Matilda de Steeton's heir, appears to have been suing the Abbot of Cockersand by an assize of mort d'ancestor for one carucate of land in Medlar. The Abbot thereupon called to warranty William de Lancaster, son of Gilbert fitz Reinfred, and by fine levied at Lancaster, 13 May, 1235, an agreement was made by which Elias de Steeton released his claim to the town of Medlar, for which release William de Lancaster gave him 35 marks. Apparently William de Lancaster relinquished his interest as mesne tenant in favour of the monks of Cockersand, for by the Charter No. 5 it appears that the monks were holding Medlar directly of the Hospitallers sine medio, under an augmented rent of 18*d.* yearly. In the year 1299 this quit rent was further augmented to 2*s.* (No. 1). In the year 1501 the monks derived an income of eight marks and 24 hens from Medlar.

Grant in frankalmoign from Gilbert, son of Roger fitz Reinfred, to God and St. Mary [of Cockersand], of the whole tenement and land of Medlar, namely, one carucate of land, with the appurtenances as well in demesne as in services, together with the mill of Greenhalgh and the homage and service of Adam de Corney and his heirs, and all easements and rights, free from all secular demands saving the service due to the King for so much land. Avice, who was married to Richard de Morvill some time during the year 1170, or before Michaelmas that year the said Richard had promised the King 200 marks for a writ of right to sue for lands which he claimed in marriage with his wife Avice. The issue of this marriage was an only son, William de Morvill, who was living in the year 1190, but probably died soon after s.p. It appears from Testa de Nevill (vol. ii. fol. 808) that the settlement made upon Avice by her father or brother—it is uncertain by which—consisted of five carucates of land in the two Ecclestons and in Larbreck. William de Lancaster II. died before the 1 Richard I., leaving by his wife Hawise de Stutevill an only daughter Hawise, who was married by King Richard to Gilbert, son of Roger fitz Reinfred. Hawise de Stutevill, the widow, married secondly Hugh de Morvill, a brother of Richard de Morvill already mentioned, and by her had issue two daughters, Ada and Joan. The former was married by her father about the 1 John, to Richard de Lucy of Egremont, the issue of the marriage being two daughters, Amabil and Alice. Richard de Lucy dying about the 15 John, his widow married Thomas de Muleton, who proffered 2,000 marks for the wardship of his two step-daughters, and afterwards married them to his two sons by a former wife, viz., Amabil de Lucy to Lambert de Muleton, and Alice to Alan de Muleton. Thomas de Muleton died in the year 1240, consequently in the Feodary of the year 1242 (Testa de Nevill) Lambert de Muleton is returned as holding Upper Rawcliffe by the service of the twelfth part of one knigh's fee, this being undoubtedly a portion of the five carucates which had formed the marriage settlement of Avice de Lancaster, the wife of Richard de Morvill, already referred to. The fee held by the family of de Lancaster, within the county of Lancaster, was of abnormal size, consisting of twenty-four carucates, in addition to 12½ carucates held in demesne, or granted in frankalmoign. Thus Upper Rawcliffe, held by the twelfth part of a fee, shows that the land was two carucates; the two Ecclestons and Larbreck, held by the service of the eighth part of one fee, was clearly three carucates; the total five carucates being evidently the marriage portion referred to. It has been necessary to enter somewhat minutely into the details of the descent and sub-division of the Lancaster fee during the earlier part of the thirteenth century, in order to explain by what means Lambert de Muleton had become mesne lord of Upper Rawcliffe in the year 1242.

¹ "Inscip" is returned in the Domesday Survey as containing two carucates of land. It was held by the "de Carlton" family (see note, p. 144), and was given by Sir William de Carleton, knight, to Sir Richard le Boteler, knight, of Rawcliffe, in marriage with Alice, daughter of the said Sir William, as appears by the deed of assignment of dower to the said Alice by Sir William le Boteler, eldest son of Sir Richard, immediately after his father's death, viz., in the manor of Mid-Rawcliffe, on Monday, the morrow of St. Lawrence, 9 Edward I. (11th August, 1281). (Dods-worth MSS., vol. liii. fol. 85.) By Fine levied at Westminster on the quinzaine of St. Michael, 13 Edward I. (14th October, 1285), Alice, the widow of Richard le Boteler, remitted her right in the manor of Inscyp and in two-thirds of the manor of Great Ecleston to Henry de Kyghelay and Ellen his wife, in fee. The manor of Inskip remained in the possession of this family for many generations. It probably formed part of the Garstang fee of de Lancaster, and, like Sowerby, was held by mesne tenants who held other lands under that family. (See notes, pp. 141, 144, 178.)

Grant in frankalmoign from Richard [de Molineux to the monks of Cockersand] of sixteen acres of arable land over against Singleton pool, upon the banks of Wyre, with common rights, for the support of the said monks' tenants of that land, together with a fishery in Wyre at the extremity of those acres, and Alan, son of Roger of Larbrick, one of his villeins. ¹ In the Domesday Survey, Frecheltun contained four carucates, Witingheham two carucates, Edelesuic two carucates, and Neutune two carucates. The ancestor of Roger de Freckleton appears to have been enfeoffed by one of the Bussels of Penwortham, in nine carucates in these four towns, to hold by the service of one knight's fee. In the 1 John the barony of Penwortham was in the King's hands, pending litigation between Hugh and Robert Bussel, as to their respective titles to the barony; consequently, upon the levying of the scutage taken that year, Roger de Freckleton, Geoffrey Gernet, and Quenild de Warton, widow of Roger le Boteler, answer for 100s. due from the three knights' fees of this barony. Soon after this date Roger de Lacy, Constable of Chester, acquired by purchase from Hugh and Robert their respective rights in the barony. The Feodary of 1242 shows that Roger de Freckleton, or his predecessors, had by that date reduced their demesne in these towns to four carucates by process of infeudation. It was also found by inquest taken about this time that Richard de Freckleton possessed less than fifteen librates of land, the possession of which would have entailed compulsory knighthood.

Grant in frankalmoign from Richard, son of Roger de Freckleton [to the monks of Cockersand], of one messuage in Elswick, with the toft which Adam, son of Godred, used to have, and a seillon called "Cock and Hen," and another seillon in Wet furlong, next to the road which runs towards Smarbrook, on the western side of the town, with common of pasture. Testamentary grant in frankalmoign from Robert, son of Richard de Burgh (Burrow) [to the monks of Cockersand], of half an oxgang of land in Poulton,¹ with the toft appurtenant thereto, which he purchased for six marks from Richard, son of Waldeve, to hold in fee and inheritance, with the appurtenances, by the rent of three silver pence payable at Michaelmas for all services, for the health of his soul and the soul of his wife Avice, and for quittance of the third part of their substance, which was due to the church of Cockersand at their decease. [s.d.
 1240-1260.]

Avice, the widow of the said Robert, confirmed this land to the said monks after his decease.

¹ In the Domesday Survey, Poulton in Amounderness is returned as containing two carucates of land. The town and church of Poulton, with one carucate of land belonging to the church, were included in the extensive grants made by Roger of Poitou to the church of St. Mary of Lancaster, upon the foundation of the Priory there, in the year 1194. The land appears to have been alienated by the monks to various persons. Early in the thirteenth century Baldwin de Brume possessed half a carucate held of the Priory, in which land Matilda, daughter of Ughtred, son of Huck, and wife of Richard de Workedley, possessed a life interest. The descendants of the said Baldwin held this land in 1294-5. Waldeve de Poulton and his descendants held another tenement there, and Adam, son of Roger de Poulton, another, as appears by numerous charters in the Register of Lancaster Priory, pp. 381-423.

Testamentary grant in frankalmoign from Adam de Yealand [to the monks of Cockersand] of two oxgangs of land with the appurtenances, in Warton in Amounderness,¹ to wit, one which he purchased of Stephen le Boteler, and the other which he had [by the grant] of Roger, son of Lady [Quenilda], with a toft and a croft containing one acre of land, upon which to erect adequate buildings. [s.d. 1199-1243.]

¹ Warton in Amounderness, with its members, was a fee which had been granted out of the barony of Penwortham to the ancestor of one Roger le Boteler, whose name occurs in the Pipe Rolls of the latter part of the reign of Henry II. and temp. Richard I. He died before 1199, in which year his widow, described as Quenild de Warton, answered for one knight's fee of that barony, which was then in the King's hands, upon the collection of the scutage which was put in charge in the first year of King John's reign. She occurs in charters Nos. 4, 8, and 10; her husband Roger in No. 8; Richard le Boteler, her eldest son, in Nos. 2 and 7; Robert and Adam, two other sons, in Nos. 5 and 2; Quenild, daughter of Hugh, and wife of Richard le Boteler, in Nos. 10 and 11; and Richard, son and heir of the said Richard, in No. 10. There are some grounds for believing that the latter was Richard le Boteler, the first of Rawcliffe. The evidence in favour of this belief is, however, too voluminous to be propounded here. Although Richard le Boteler still retained an interest here at the period 1246-1258, it appears that the bulk of the estate was alienated before then. By fine levied at Westminster, 9 John, Richard le Boteler warranted to Hugh de Moreton and Margaret his wife, daughter of Richard, son of Roger of Woodplumpton, one oxgang of land, and the service of four oxgangs, which Quenild de Warton, mother of the said Richard, had granted to the said Margaret. In the year 1242 Thomas de Beetham held three carucates here, by the service of the third part of a knight's fee, and at the time of his death in 1249 he held Warton, three carucates; Argarmeols in Birkdale, one carucate—acquired through his wife Amuria, daughter and co-heiress of Richard, son of Roger;—and Newsham, two oxgangs. Ralph de Beetham, his son and heir, died in 1254, seised of seven carucates two oxgangs of land, which he held by knight's service of the barony of Penwortham, viz., Argarmeols, one carucate; Warton, three carucates; Newsham, two oxgangs; Claughton, two carucates; and Bretherton, one carucate.

Adam de Yealand, who was deputy sheriff of the county from 12 to 17 Henry III., acquired one oxgang of land here from Adam, son of Walter, which the latter quit-claimed to him by fine levied at Lancaster in the 11 Henry III. He had acquired another oxgang by purchase from Stephen de Boteler, and another from Roger, son of the lady [Quenild?]. He also held under Gilbert fitz Reinfred $1\frac{1}{2}$ carucates of land in Yealand and Silverdale, which William de Lancaster I. had given to Adam de Auerenge, whose daughter and heiress was the mother of the said Adam. In the year 1216, Alice, his daughter and heiress, was one of the hostages whom the said Gilbert gave as security for the payment of the fine of 12,000 marks, by which he obtained the King's pardon and restitution of his lands, forfeited for rebellion. She was the wife of Robert Conyers in 31 Henry III., and had issue, Adam Conyers and three daughters, two of whom married into the family of Singleton of Singleton.

Grant in frankalmoign from Richard, son of Roger de Freckleton [to the monks of Cockersand], of two acres and a half of land in Freckleton,² ² Freckleton was another of the fees held under the Barony of Penwortham. In the reign of King John, Swain de Freckleton and Roger his brother gave land to Cockersand (No. 5). Possibly they were the sons of Jordan, who occurs in Charter No. 4. In the year 1201, Roger de Freckleton answered for one knight's fee of the Barony of Penwortham, upon the collection of the scutage put in charge that year. Richard his son and heir held this fee in 1212, and also in 1242, and his descendants held land here and elsewhere in Amounderness for several generations. The members of the fee of Freckleton were Whittingham one carucate, Elswick two carucates, and Newton two carucates; which, with four carucates in Freckleton, made up one knight's fee, consisting in this instance of nine carucates of land.

Grant in frankalmoign from Warin de Lancaster¹ and his heirs [to the monks of Cockersand], of the fourth part of one oxgang of land in ¹ The only reference I have yet found to a relationship between Warin de Lancaster and William de Lancaster I., occurs in Hugh de Morvill's confirmation of two oxgangs of land in Forton to Henry de Lancaster (afterwards known as Henry de Lee), which confirmation was probably deemed necessary owing to the fact that Hawise de Stutevill, wife of Hugh de Morvill, and widow of William de Lancaster II., had received her dower in the Fee of Garstang, of which Forton was a member. The words of the charter of confirmation, referring to the two oxgangs in Forton are:—"totam Fortonam scilicet duas bovatas quas pater ejus (i.e. Warin de Lancaster) habuit ex dono Willelmi de Lancastre ævunculi sui et concessu hæredis sui." (See hereafter under Forton).

The original grant by William de Lancaster I. was made before the year 1170. Warin de Lancaster is described in the Pipe Roll of 32 Henry II., as Warin the Falconer. He had been condemned by the Forest Justices to pay a fine of one mark for keeping dogs in the Forest contrary to the Assize of Woodstock. He held six carucates of land in Ravensmeols, Ainsdale, French Lea, 8*d.* rent in the town of Preston, and lands in Liverpool and Up-Litherland in capite of the King by the service of Falconry. Warin died before the accession of King John, who gave English Lea to Henry de Lee, son and heir of Warin, in exchange for Liverpool and Up-Litherland, by charter dated at Worcester, 23rd August, 1207, and duly confirmed King Henry's grant of the other part of this lordship, to hold by the yearly service of 20*r.* for all services, excepting wardship and marriage. Henry de Lee died before 1240, and was succeeded by his son, Sir John de Lee, who died in 1265. His son and heir, Sir Henry de Lee, fined for his relief, 12th September, 1265, and died in 1289. His son William de Lee succeeded, and married Clarence daughter and heiress of Robert Banastre, with whom he acquired the Manor of Mollington Banastre, co. Chester. He died before the end of the reign of Edward I., leaving issue a son, Sir Henry de Lee, who was beheaded in 1315, for participation in an insurrection in Lancashire headed by Adam Banastre, against Thomas, Earl of Lancaster ; and a daughter Sibil, who was married to Richard de Hoghton, and conveyed the said Sir Henry thereupon acknowledged the manor of Forton to be the right of the said Abbot, and of his Church of Cockersand. The charters of Lea (Nos. 1 to 5) were then delivered to the said Sir Henry, who delivered to the monks his deed of feoffment of Forton.

As it was unnecessary to transcribe the cirograph of the fine among the LEA charters, it is to be sought for (postea) under FORTON.

Grant in frankalmoign from Walter, son of Osbert¹ [to the monks of Cockersand], of the house which used to be Alan Taylor's, and the croft and the moiety of Pilate furlong, from Roger's garden to the ditch on the east; with a reasonable grant of common rights of the town of Plumpton, and the liberties, free customs and easements of the said town. [S.D. 1190-1217.]

¹ Walter son of Osbert, ancestor of the Cliftons of Clifton, held ten carucates of land in thanage, by the service of three marks yearly. He held eight carucates in demesne, viz., Clifton two carucates, Salwick one carucate, Great and Little Field-plumpton two carucates, Westby two carucates, Barton one carucate; and two carucates in Barton in service, which the heirs of Geoffrey de Barton held of him. (Survey of 1212, Testa de Nevill.) He died in 1217, in which year William de Clifton, son of Walter, fined £4 for his relief. By inquisition taken 7th April, 1258, it was found that Sir William de Clifton died seised of ten carucates of land, which he held in capite by the service of 40s., and that Henry de Clifton, who had been married during his father's lifetime, was his son and heir. Henry died before 1292, in which year his son and heir William de Clifton was being sued upon a writ of quo warranto for the manor of Westby. By inquisition taken 3rd December, 1323, it was found that William de Clifton died seised of the manors of Clifton and Westby, &c., and that William de Clifton was his son and heir, aged 28 years.

Et in hujus rei testimonium pro me et hæredibus meis has litteras meas eisdem contuli patentes sigilli mei inpressione roboratas. Hiis testibus, etc.

Iste Ricardus in omnibus annuatim reddit ij solidos, tam pro terra de Heselrig, quam pro terra sua de Plumton, et pro præscripto scripto. Et in decessu dimidiam marcam.

Grant in frankalmoign from Richard, son of Richard Russel of Plumpton, for the health of his soul, and the souls of his father and mother, ancestors and successors, to the Abbey of Saint Mary of Cockersand, of twelapence yearly rent, sixpence payable at Michaelmas and sixpence at the feast of the Nativity of our Lord. [s.d. after 1268.]

The said Richard pays in the whole two shillings yearly, for the land of Hazelrigg, for his Plumpton land, and for the above-written deed. At a decease half a mark.

¹ King John, when he was Count of Mortain, 1189-1194, granted one carucate of land in Ashton, Ingol and Tulketh to Arthur de Ashton, to hold in thanage by the service of 10s. yearly. This was confirmed after the King's accession, by charter dated at Chinon, on the 10th October, 1199. Arthur died in 1201, in which year his son and heir Richard paid 100s. for his relief of this land. In the reign of Edward I. William, son of Richard de Ashton, and Richard, son of Roger de Ashton, appear to have conveyed their respective interests in the manor of Ashton and in Tulketh, to Sir Henry de Lee and Robert de Haydock. The former gave his interest to his father, William de Lee, so that in the 29 Edward I. William de Lee and Robert de Haydock were participes of the manor. In the 20 Edward III., Sir Adam de Hoghton, by inheritance from his mother Sibil, daughter and ultimately heir of William de Lee, held three-eighths, Edmund de Haydock one-fourth, Thomas Travers one-third, and William Lawrence one twenty-fourth part of the manor.

SCIANT præsentibus, etc., quod ego Adam de Quitingham dedi, etc., duas partes unius bovatae terræ in Quitingham infra has divisas, scilicet a tofto Philippi, sequendo Witakarlege usque in Brunedene, et sic sequendo Brunedene usque in le Blenesgile, et sequendo dictum gyle, usque ad foveam in aquilonali parte, et sic sequendo foveam illam usque iterum ad toftum prædicti Philippi ; in puram et perpetuam, etc., liberè et quietè ab omni seculari servicio et exactione ; cum communione et eisiamentis omnibus dictæ villæ pertinentibus ; pro salute, etc. Et in super quietum clamavi in eadem terra manentem de me et hæredibus meis de pannagio de propriis porcibus suis in bosco de Quitingham inperpetuum. Cum warantia et testibus.

Grant in frankalmoign from Adam de Whittingham¹ [to the monks of Cockersand] of two parts of one oxgang of land in Whittingham, within these bounds, to wit, from Philip's toft following Whitakerleigh into Bruneden, along the same into the Blenesgill, following the said gill to the dyke on the north, and along the ditch back again to the said Philip's toft ; with common of pasture and other appurtenances. The said Adam further granted that the tenant of the said land should have acquittance from pannage of his pigs in Whittingham wood for ever. [s.d. 1242-1268.]

¹ Warin de Whittingham was living temp. King John, and as late as the year 1242. Adam de Whittingham, son and heir of Warin, was one of the jury upon the inquest taken after the death of Richard de Catterall, at Kirkham, on the 19th November, 1257. He probably had a son and heir Geoffrey, who died before 7th May, 1310, seised of "a Manor" in Whittingham, and lands in Eccleston in Leylandshire ; his heirs were his two sisters and a niece, viz., Alice the wife of John de Singleton, Marjory, and Marjory daughter of Constance, sister of the said Alice and Marjory.

Grant in frankalmoign from Matilda [de Thornton], daughter of Robert, for the health of the soul of her husband, William de Winwick [to the monks of Cockersand], of six acres of her land in Whittingham, in the southern part of Fletcher-oatley, between the syke and the moss;
 with common of pasture and other appurtenances. [S.D. 1217-1221.]

¹ Matilda de Thornton was the wife of William de Winwick, and survived her husband, who died between the years 1212 and 1217. Before the latter date, Baldwin Blundel had offered King John twenty marks for the wardship and marriage of Margery de Thornton, daughter and heiress of William de Winwick, but notwithstanding that, she had—before the year 1221—become the wife of Michael de Carleton, who made his peace with King Henry for his misdemeanour in marrying her without royal licence, by the proffer of ten marks. Exactly five years later, the said Michael being dead, his uncle or brother, William de Carleton, proffered six marks for the wardship of Richard de Thornton, son and heir of the said Michael and Margery. (See note respecting Thornton, p. 160.)

Cum warantia et testibus.

Grant in frankalmoign from Beatrice [de Mitton], daughter of Robert, son of Bernard¹ [to the monks of Cockersand], for the health of the souls of her father and mother, of certain land in the town of Goosnargh, within these bounds:—from the head of Robertshurst, eastward to a blazed oak tree, then crossing the Carr southward to another blazed oak tree upon the bank of the stream, following the stream eastward back to the said Robertshurst; with common of pasture and other appurtenances, and acquittance of pannage in Goosnargh wood of the pigs of the tenants of the said land.  erthurst, infra has divisas, ascendendo unam sikam del Hurst in Beatrix.

¹ William de Lancaster I., who died before the year 1170, gave to Bernard, son of Ailsa, two carucates of land in Halecath and Catterall to hold by the service of the twelfth part of a knight's fee. Robert, son of Bernard, held this manor temp. Richard I., together with Goosnargh (1½ carucates), which he held in thanage by the service of 18s. 8d. Between the years 1199 and 1206, he endowed the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem with the chapel of Howath, and with land there and in Catterall, Goosnargh, and elsewhere. (Monasticum, vol. v. p. 806.) By his wife Hawise, he had issue a son Bernard, who died viv. pat., and three daughters Ysolt, Beatrice, and Avice. At the time of their father's death in 1206, YSOLT was the wife of Richard, son of Swain (possibly brother of Walter de Carleton), and by her had issue a son Richard, who assumed the name "de Catterall," and was the ancestor of the family of Catterall of Catterall and Little Mitton; BEATRICE was the wife of Hugh de Mitton, by whom he had issue Hugh de Mitton, Bernard, and Ralph, and by one of two former wives, Olive or Richmunda, he had issue Robert de Mitton — who gave the church of Mitton to Cockersand Abbey — and a daughter; AVICE was the wife of Oliver, son of Nigel de Longford. Nicholas, father of Nigel, was son, or more probably grandson, of Nigel de Stafford, a Domesday tenant in capite in counties Stafford and Derby, and progenitor of the family of Gresley of Drakelow. He appears to have married Margaret de Bubendon, elder of the two daughters and co-heiresses of Ralph fitz Ercald (she was tenant of Bubendon in 1166). By a fine made

9 Richard I., between Oliver fitz Nigel and John Sautcheverel, respecting the lands of Ralph fitz Ercald, Oliver obtained Bubendon, Langeford, Mamerton, Thurvaston, and Woodhouse, co. Derby, Athelaxton (Ellaston, co. Stafford), Stanton, Colwich, and Prestewude. (Staff. Hist. Collections, vol. i. p. 152, and vol. ii. p. 68.) The said Avice married secondly, Michael de Ellaston (formerly written Athelackeston). In the Feodary of 1242, Hugh de Mitton, son of Beatrice, and brother of Bernard de Mitton), Richard de Catterall, son of Ysolt, and Henry de Longford, son of Avice, were returned as holding the twelfth part of a fee in Catterall. Contemporary with Robert, son of Bernard, and holding land under him in Catterall, was Alan, son of Ralph, whose descendants assumed the name "de Tarnacre." He will be noticed hereafter under TARNACRE. Adam, son of Ralph, possibly a brother of Alan, held land in Goosnargh before 1206. (Nos. 7 and 8.) Possibly his tenement was two oxgangs which William de Clifton held here at the time of his death in 1258, by the service of 3s. 3½d. (one-sixth part of 18s. 8d.) In the Survey of 1346, William de Clifton held this sixth part of Goosnargh with Richard le Boteler. The remaining five parts were held equally by Adam de Hoghton, Richard de Catterall, and Nicholas de Longford.

A few notes about the Longford family may be of interest. William de Withington appears to have held one knight's fee in Withington of the Grelley fee temp. Henry II. or Richard I. His two sons Matthew and Robert held this fee in the year 1212. Matthew probably died soon after, and his brother also, for during the period of war and disturbance at the end of King John's reign, Matthew de Haversage, son of Matthew de Withington, was in ward to the King, who gave that wardship to Philip Mark, at that time Custos of Nottingham Castle, who forcibly married his ward to his daughter Annora. Matthew, son of Matthew de Haversage, gave to God and the church of Lenton, co. Notts., his manors of Holm and Donestone. (Inspeximus, 10 Edw. II. : Mon. Angl., vol. v. p. 113.) He died without issue early in the year 1259, when his estates devolved upon the children of his sister Cecily, the wife of Henry de Longford, viz. Nigel de Longford and Matilda, the wife of Henry de Gousell. Nigel had issue Oliver de Longford, who died in 1284, the latter being succeeded by his son and heir, Sir John de Longford, who died in 1304. Sir Nicholas de Longford, son and heir of Sir John, married Katharine, daughter of Henry de Brailsford. He is returned in the Survey of the Barony of Manchester, made in 1320, as holding one knight's fee in Withington; and 3½ oxgangs in Goosnargh, the inheritance of his ancestress Avice de Longford, daughter of Robert, son of Bernard. In the 17 Edward II., he received the royal pardon for implication in the rebellion of Thomas, Earl of Lancaster.

¹ "Sorbi" was returned in the Domesday Survey as containing one carucate of land. It was successively held by Grimbald de Ellet and his son Walter. The latter—who was sometimes described as Walter de Soureby—granted the wardship and marriage of his eldest son Richard—and other children successively—together with his said son's inheritance both in "Ellale and Soureby" to Sir Richard le Boteler, knight, circa 1256. (Dodsworth MSS., vol. liii. fol. 91.) Probably they all died young, as I have found no subsequent mention of this family holding land here. Adam de Bradkirk also held an estate here, which he granted to Richard de Tarnacre in marriage with his daughter Amabil. (See note, p. 248.) Hence the above grant to the Abbey. Like Inskip, this township appears to have been a member of the Fee of Garstang.

Henrici Capellani condonat propinquoires terræ (sic) Walteri de Soureby; et unam dimidiam acram in alia divisa super terram de Leye, incipiendo in occidente contra ortum Ricardi Senioris de Tranaker, et sequendo versus orientem usque le Kar; cum uno mesuagio et uno orto, mesuagium continens in se quinquaginta pedes in longitudine, et xxx in latitudine, Ortus verò continet in se viij rodas in longitudine, et v in latitudine, in aquilonali parte domus Gilberti Capellani de Plumton, et in orientali parte domus Henrici Wit[er]; in puram et perpetuam, etc.; pro salute, etc.; cum communi pastura et præcipuè ad xv averia et ad omnes alias minores pecudes quam (sic) ipsi habuerint, qui dictam terram tenuerint; et cum omnibus communibus eisiamentis et libertatibus tantæ terræ in dicta villa pertinentibus, liberè, quietè, benè et in pace; ita verò quod nec, etc. Cum warrantia et testibus.

Grant in frankalmoign from Alan de Tarnacre¹ [to the monks of Cockersand], of the whole land of Kirkcroft, within these bounds: beginning at the stream running into Clene, following the same eastward to the orchard which formerly belonged to Geoffrey the carpenter, following [the boundary of] this orchard to the mill-stream running into Wyre, and so down Wyre to the Clene town-field; together with the messuage and curtelage, which the Lady Alice [de Kellet?], grantor's mother, formerly held in dower; also one acre and a half within another boundary, to wit, in Cadiave's house-stead, between land belonging to Cockersand and land formerly belonging to Sir William de Lancaster II.; together with the common easements and customs of the town of Tarnacre and of Rawcliffe appurtenant to that amount of land. [s.d. 1200-1217.]

¹ TARNACRE forms part of the township of Upper Rawcliffe, and was a member of the Fee of Garstang. (See note, page 178.) From charters Nos. 1, 2, and 6, it seems probable that Ralph de Kellet, who witnessed the grant of the Chapel of Howath by Robert, son of Bernard, of Goosnagh, to the brethren of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem, before the year 1206, was the husband of Alice and father of Alan de Tarnacre. The said Alan had two sons—William, "son of Alan de Tarnacre," and Richard de Tarnacre. The former had a son Alan, the grantor in charter No. 7. An interesting charter by which the said William de Tarnacre released his title to the third part of one carucate of land in Halecat in Catterall, to Michael de Ellaston and Avice his wife (see note, page 235), is preserved in Dodsworth's MSS., vol. liii. fol. 95b, as follows—"Sciant omnes tam præsentis quam futuri quod ego Willelmus filius Alani de Tranaker relaxavi et quietum clamavi de me et hæredibus meis Michaeli de Adhelacheston et Aviciæ uxori suæ et hæredibus eorum, totum jus quod antecessores mei et ego habuimus in tercia parte unius carucatæ terræ in Halechat, quam terciam partem columpniavi per breve domini Regis de recto in curia Domine Helewise de Stutevill apud Garstang, etc. Testibus, Rogero Gernet, Toma de Bethom, Willelmo Blundel, Ada Molineux, Henrico parsona de Witinton tunc temporis Senescallo, Willelmo persona de Gairstang, Waltero filio Suani, Willelmo filio suo, Paulino de Gairstang, Hugone de Winmerle, Waltero de Winequic, Huctredo filio Suani, Grimbaldo de Sourbi, et multis aliis." [s.d. 1213-1242.] Respecting Hawise de Stutevill, see note, p. 179.

Richard de Tarnacre married Amabil, daughter of Adam de Bradkirk (1200-1242), and sister of Adam de Bradkirk (1242-1268), and by her had issue a son Richard de Tarnacre (Sowerby No. 1); also called Richard, son of Amabil de Sourey in the Whalley Coucher, p. 462.

¹ "Clactone" was returned at the Domesday Survey as containing two carucates of land. It was a member of the Barony of Penwortham, and was held in the twelfth century by Richard, son of Roger of Lytham and Woodplumpton, by the service of one-fifth part of a knight's fee ; from whom it descended to his daughter Quenild, wife of Sir Roger Gernet of Halton. She dying s.p. in the year 1252, this estate passed to her nephew Ralph de Beetham, who died two years later. Before that date, however, the "de Singleton" family had been enfeoffed in one moiety of the township, which afterwards passed to the Banastres, and from them to the Brockholes of Claughton. The Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem and the Abbey of Cockersand each held two solidates of rent in the other moiety in the year 1324, which William Banastre held at the time of his death, which happened a few years before that date. The remainder of this moiety appears to have been granted out during the thirteenth century to various persons, the following series of charters mentioning at least four different families of free tenants possessing lands there.

The name is variously spelt Clahton, Clacton, and Claughton, the first syllable has clearly a guttural pronunciation.

habendas, in liberam, puram, etc. ; pro salute, etc. ; cum communi pastura et communibus eisiamentis ad tantam terram pertinentibus, liberè et quietè ab omni seculari servicio et exactione. Cum warantia et testibus.

Carta.

SCIANT, etc., quod ego Grimbaldus filius Willelmi de Slen concessi et quietum clamavi Deo, etc., totam terram cum suis pertinenciis sine aliquo retenemento, quam de ipsis tenui in villa de Clacton, scilicet, in longitudine broc inter Crosgate et forestam a me et hæredibus meis inperpetuum.

Istam terram tenet Willelmus filius Grimbaldi hæreditariè et reddit per annum vj denarios.¹

Præterea dedi et concessi, etc., unam acram terræ et dimidiam et sexdecim rodefal cum omnibus suis pertinenciis, infra clausuram de Fardeneschahe, quam de Sancto Johanne tenui, cujus quidem terræ servitium erga hospitale Sancti Johannis, prædictum Abbatem et Conventum Grimbaldus de Barton et hæredes sui singulis annis inperpetuum adquietabunt. Pro hac autem donacione, etc., dederunt mihi v marcas argenti. Cum warantia et testibus.

Istam terram idem Grimbaldus nobis quietam clamavit per duo alia scripta.

Quitclaim from Grimbald, son of William de Sline [to the monks of Cockersand], of all the land with appurtenances, which he held of them in the town of Claughton, to wit, by the side of Brock, between Crossgate and the forest.

Also a release from the said Grimbald [to the said monks], in consideration of five marks of silver which they gave him, of one acre and a half and sixteen rod-falls of land with appurtenances in the Far-deanshaw enclosure, which he held [of the brethren of the Hospital] of St.

¹ The marginal notes which occur throughout the Chartulary, were inserted by Robert de Latchford, the compiler of the M.S.S., and evidently refer to tenants holding under the Abbey in the year 1268.

John [of Jerusalem]; the service whereof, due to the said brethren, Grimbald de Barton and his heirs will yearly discharge the Abbot and Convent of Cockersand. [S.D. 1230 c.—1268.]

The said Grimbald quitclaimed this land to the said monks by two other writings.

Et si aliquis demanda huic terræ evererit: de residuo feodi mei adquietabitur. Cum testibus.

Quieta clamantia.
Alexander.

Istam terram per easdem divisas nobis quietam clamavit Alexander filius Roberti de Gayrstang per scriptum suum, pro tribus marcis et iiij solidis, etc. Cum testibus.

Grant in frankalmoign from John, son of Matthew [to the monks of Cockersand], of six acres of his land in Bilsborough,¹ within these bounds,

¹ William, Count of Boulogne, Warren, and Mortain (1153-1160), gave one carucate in Broughton to Hluck de Broughton, to hold by homage and service of 8s. (Dodsworth MSS., vol. cxlix. fol. 49.) He is also said to have given to the said to wit, one acre between the syke and the wood for the erection of buildings, the said syke extending between Moorylee and the said wood; also five acres in the town-field, to wit, from the land which used to belong to Richard de Ashley, across towards the northern side, in width five acres, and in length from Moorylee westward to beyond Ferry-hurst, with common of pasture, &c. The residue of his fee to discharge any future claim upon this land. [S.D. 1212-1250 c.]

Alexander, son of Robert de Garstang, quitclaimed this land to the said monks by the same bounds for three marks and four shillings [which they gave to him].

Huck half a carucate in Little Singleton, to hold by serjeanty, as chief bailiff to keep the wapentake of Amounderness. (Kuerden MSS.) Ughtred, son of the said Huck, occurs frequently in the Pipe Rolls of Henry II. He had issue a daughter, Matilda (see note, p. 114), and three sons—Robert, son of Ughtred, sometimes called "clerk," the grantor of land to Cockersand Abbey in Billsborough (No. 2)—whose son, Richard, afterwards confirmed his father's grant (Billsborough, No. 13); Ralph, son of Ughtred; and Richard, son of Ughtred, called "Sir" Richard in the Plea Rolls. It appears from two Inquisitions preserved among the Escheats (37 Henry III., No. 16, and 45 Henry III., No. 37) that Theobald Walter wrongfully ejected Richard, son of Ughtred, from his estate of Broughton. For this and other similar misdeeds King John deprived Theobald of the greater part of his Amounderness estate. The said Richard died before the year 1212, when his son and heir, Alan de Singleton, was returned in the Survey made that year as holding the serjeantry of the wapentake of Blackburnshire in fee, and half a carucate of land in Singleton by serjeanty, as warden or master serjeant of the wapentake of Amounderness; one carucate in Broughton; two oxgangs (sic) in Billsborough, which he held jointly with John de Billsborough; and one carucate in Steyna (see note, p. 114). The said Alan had two brothers—Richard de Thornton (Stainall, Nos. 57, 58) and Roger [de Cottam], who gave land in Cottam to Cockersand Abbey. Alan de Singleton died before 16th November, 1244, this being the date of the writ directed to the sheriff to make an inquiry respecting the lands which the said Alan held in chief of the King at the time of his death. William de Singleton was found to be his son and next heir, and on the 18th December the same year a writ royal was directed to the sheriff of Lancaster, to deliver seisin of the said Alan's estates to William, his son and heir, he having already done homage for the same. William de Singleton had a son Alan, who was twice married. By his first wife, Hawise de Cottam, he had a son, Thomas, who died s.p., and a daughter, Joan, who married Thomas Banastre, and so carried the Singleton estates in Singleton, Broughton, Billsborough, Dillworth, and elsewhere, into that family. By his second wife, Catherine Conyers (daughter of Robert Conyers by his wife Alice, daughter and heiress of Sir Adam de Yealand), with whom he acquired a considerable estate in Claughton and elsewhere, he had two sons, Gilbert, his heir, and Ranulph. The office of chief bailiff of the wapentake of Blackburn was held by this family in fee, but no land was attached to that office. From this circumstance, and also from the fact that their estates were principally held of the Crown in chief, it is reasonable to suppose that this office had been held by successive members of the family from the time when Clitheroe was in the hands of Henry I., i.e., since 1103-1118 c. Dillworth, one carucate, was held by this family during the thirteenth century of the Honor of Clitheroe, by homage and the yearly service of 2s.

Cokersand et eorum successoribus, quod ipsi et successores sui habeant et percipiant inperpetuum, mortuum boscum de Kirkelund, prout carta domini Willelmi de Lancastra et scriptum concessionis Johannis le Taillour de Kirkelund, patris prædicti Johannis, eisdem Abbati et Conventui et eorum successoribus inde factis plenius testantur et proportant; ita videlicet quod benè liceat prædictis Abbati et Conventui et eorum successoribus, dictum mortuum boscum percipere, asportare et cariare ubicumque voluerint quam citius illud commodè facere potuerunt, ad majus commodum et proficuum eorundem, qualitercumque et ubi melius sibi viderint expedire, absque impedimento, perturbatione seu calumpnia dicti Johannis et hæredum suorum inperpetuum.

Pro quibus concessione et confirmatione prædictis: prædicti Abbas et Conventus pro se et successoribus suis concesserunt prædicto Johanni et hæredibus suis, quod ipsi ad voluntatem suam se possint approviare de quibusdam parcellis bosci, vasti et pasturæ in Gayrstang, infra divisas de Kirklund, videlicet de quadam placea bosci et pasturæ infra Ounespull et Mussam de Pilyn in latitudine, et in longitudine incipiendo apud Humbilschough et sic sequendo mussam prædictam versus Wyre in austro, et sic sequendo Wyre usque Ounespull, et sic ascendendo Ounespull versus borialem usque ad terram ipsius Johannis, et sic sequendo pratum et terram arrabilem ipsius Johannis, usque ad prædictam divisam de Humbilschough. Et de iiij^{or} acris bosci et vasti jacentibus in longitudine in diversis parcellis a scitu Manerii ipsius Johannis, usque ad portam quæ vocatur le Lodyat, quæ ducit versus pontem de Houwath, videlicet subtus sepes ipsius Johannis, et terram suam arrabilem. Salvo tamen, eisdem Abbati et Conventui et successoribus suis et eorum tenentibus in eisdem vastis et boscis, sic approviatis aut approviandis comunam pasturam tamquam pertinentem ad liberum tenementum suum in Gayrstang, post blada et fena asportata pro omnimodis averiis suis; et similiter mortuo bosco suo in eisdem parcellis bosci et vasti capiendo et cariendo, sicut in aliis appruviamentis sequentibus. Et præterea, iidem Abbas et Conventus concesserunt pro se et successoribus suis, prædicto Johanni, et hæredibus suis, quod ipsi se possint appruiare de vj acris bosci de Kirkelund, juxta Manerium suum, in quodam loco qui vocatur le Hallehurstes. Salvo tamen prædictis Abbati et Conventui et eorum successoribus, mortuo bosco suo infra prædicta appruiamenta qualitercumque contingentia capiendo, cariendo [et] asportando pro voluntate sua, ut prædictum est.

Et prædictus Johannes concessit pro se et hæredibus suis, prædictis Abbati et Conventui et eorum successoribus et tenentibus suis de Gayrstang, quod ipsi habeant imperpetuum viam competentem infra boscum de Kirkelund usque Fildyngford, et de Fildyngforth linialiter usque Mussam de Pilyn, de latitudine quinque perticarum, pro averiis suis fugandis et refugandis, turbis et aliis necessariis suis cariandis et deducendis. Et etiam quod prædicti Abbas et Conventus et eorum successores habeant imperpetuum a Manerio suo et eorum vicaria Sanctæ Elenæ de Gayrstanges, viam bonam et competentem usque ad prædicta appruiamenta de Hallehurstes et alia, ad mortuum boscum suum, cum contigerit, cariandum ad Manerium suum prædictum, vel alibi ubicunque voluerint. Et dictus Johannes concessit pro se et hæredibus suis, prædictis Abbati et Conventui et eorum vicariis, ac eorum tenentibus, quod si averia eorum rationabilia, infra prædicta appruiamenta, ob defectum sufficientis claustræ, tempore clauso intraverint, quod extunc non imparcentur, sed rechacientur sine emendatione inde capienda. Et prædicti Abbas et Conventus concesserunt, pro se et successoribus suis, quod non prosternent nec asportabunt inposterum, aliquam quercum stantem et jacentem in bosco de Kirkelund, nisi fuerit mortua, fructum et folia non portans. In cujus rei testimonium, etc.

Indenture of Covenant witnessing that John, son of John, the tailor of Kirkland,¹ granted and confirmed to the Abbot and Convent of Cocker-sand and to their successors, that they should wholly take forever the dead wood in Kirkland, according to the intent and purport of the charter granted to them by Sir William de Lancaster, and the deed of gift of the said John, the tailor of Kirkland, and that they should carry away the same, whenever and whithersoever it should be most convenient, or to their greater profit and advantage, without let or hindrance.

In return for this concession, the said Abbot and Convent granted to the said John and to his heirs, liberty to make improvement in certain parcels of wood, waste and pasture in Garstang, within the bounds of Kirkland, to wit, in a plot of wood and pasture running widthways between Ounes-pool and Pilling Moss, and commencing lengthways at Humbilscough, along the moss southward to Wyre, along Wyre to Ounes-pool, and so up Ounes-pool northward to the said John's land, along his meadow and arable land to the aforesaid boundary of Humbilscough. Also in four acres of wood and waste, lying lengthways in divers plots, from the site of the said John's manor [house] to the gate called the Lidyate, leading towards Howath bridge, to wit, below his hedges and arable land; saving nevertheless to the said Abbot and Convent, their successors, and their tenants, common of pasture therein for all de Kirkelund cum omnibus pertinentiis suis, etc. Testibus—Domina Agneta uxor mea, Ricardo Pincerna vicecomite Lancastriæ, Rolando de Re[ves]gile, etc." [s.d. 1242-1246.] (Dodsworth MSS., vol. lxii. fol. 89.)

"Idem Willelmus de Lancastra concessit alias terras eidem Roberto le Taylour et hæredibus [suis] per metas et divisas juxta Kirkelund, cum libera piscatione in omnibus aquis tam magnis, quam parvis infra dominium suum de Wiresdale. Testibus—Matheo de Redman vicecomite Lancastriæ, Domino Rogero de Lancastra, et aliis militibus." [s.d. 26th to 28th November, 1246.] (Ibid.)

"Convenit inter Abbatem de Cokersand, ex una parte, et Johannem de Kirkelund, ex altera, super una acra terræ et mortuo Bosco de Kirkelund, etc. Testibus—Domino Henrico de Lee, tunc vicecomite Lancastriæ, Domino Ricardo Pincerna, Domino Adam de Holand, militibus; Johanne de Wynmerle, Radulpho de Caterale." [s.d. 1273-4.] (Dodsworth MSS., vol. lxii. fol. 90^b.)

The first of the three documents was executed between the years 1242-1246, during the shrievalty of Richard le Boteler, afterwards of Rawcliffe, who is said to have been Sheriff, or more correctly, deputy Sheriff, for William de Lancaster, during the Exchequer year Mich. 1242-Mich. 1243, but in any case the date must be before the death of de Lancaster, which occurred on Wednesday, 28th November, 1246. The date of the second document can be very closely fixed by the following extract from the Inquisition after the death of the said William de Lancaster: "The jury say that W. de Lancaster enfeoffed upon his death bed, John Buscel of 15 a. of land in Scotford; Robert Taylor of 56 a. of arable land in the townfields of Kir[k]lundfeldes, and of the wood of Kirkelund, and that the said John and Robert were enfeoffed within three days before the death of the said W. [de Lancaster], and that they have had seisin by no one, but of themselves. . . . The said William bequeathed to the Abbot of Kokersond 4 oxgangs of land in Gairstang (see p. 280), with his heart, within 3 days before his death. The Abbot has had seisin through himself, in like manner as the others." Compare the grant of Egton to the Abbey of Furness, and particularly the names of the witnesses and the date, in the Furness Coucher, pp. 349-350. The last document does not appear to be the same convention as that which is preserved in the Chartulary. The date would be during the earlier shrievalty of Sir Henry de Lee, Mich. 1273-Mich. 1274.

their cattle, after haytime or harvest, as if appurtenant to their free tenement in Garstang; and saving the dead wood therein, as in other improved grounds. Also in six acres of the Kirkland wood, near his manor [house], in a place called Hallhurst, saving their dead wood therein, as aforesaid.

The said John further granted to the said Abbot and Convent a competent road through Kirkland wood to Fildyngford, and thence in a straight line to Pilling Moss, five perches wide, for driving and redriv-ing there beasts and fetching and carrying their turves and other necessaries, and a further good and sufficient road from their manor and Church of St. Ellen of Garstang, to the said improvement at Hallhurst and elsewhere, for the carriage of dead wood to their said manor.

The said John also granted to them and to their vicars and tenants, that if their beasts should trespass upon the said improvements during the close time, by reason of inadequate fences, that they should not be impounded, but should be driven out without claim for compensation.
And the said Abbot and Convent agreed that they would not fell or carry away hereafter any oak tree standing or lying in Kirkland wood, unless it were dead and bore neither leaves nor acorns. [s.D. 1274 or 1282-1285.]

² "Scalinga" is said to be low Latin for a slate or stone quarry, but in this Chartu-lary it appears to have stood for an old English word "scaling," by which was probably meant a "patch of cultivated ground upon a hill side," perhaps a "lince" or "lynch." It seems to be allied to the provincial word "sca'al," to turn over on one side, to rake over; or to "scale" a steep hill.

¹ William de Lancaster II. died 30 Henry II., 1184. The original grant by Hamund or Hægmund had been made before 1190, and was probably included in the of one acre of land of his inheritance, which his father formerly held in the fee of Garstang, and which he now holds, with all liberties, &c., of the town of Garstang. [S.D. 1190-1220.]

 et perpetuam elemosinam, etc. Cum testibus.

Grant in frankalmoign from Hawise de Stutevill¹ [to the monks of Cockersand], by divine inspiration, and for the promotion of the blessed truth, of the church of Garstang, with the chapels and all other appurtenances, for the health of her own soul and the souls of her husbands and her daughter Hawise. [S.D. 1199-1220.]

 and Kirkoswald in Cumberland. She married firstly, William de Lancaster II., by whom she had an only daughter, Hawise, who married Gilbert, son of Roger fitz Reinfred; but her said husband departing this life in 1184, she paid a fine to the King for licence to marry whom she would, and soon after took to her second husband Hugh de Morvill, lord of Ishall and Burgh-on-Sands, in Cumberland, brother to Richard de Morvill, who had married Avicia, only sister of William de Lancaster, first husband of the said Hawise. (See note, p. 179.)

At York assizes, temp. John, before Geoffrey fitz Peter and his associates, an assize came to make recognition if the church of St. Helen of Garstang was a chapel belonging to the church of St. Michael-on-Wyre, which was of the King's donation. Gilbert fitz Reinfred and Hawise de Stutevill were summoned to show by what title they made themselves patrons of that church. The said Gilbert asked for the consideration of the Court, as to whether he ought to reply to the writ, because the advowson of the said church belonged to the inheritance of Hawise his wife, and she was not mentioned in the writ. Hawise de Stutevill stated that she only claimed her dower in the said church [as the widow of William de Lancaster II.], and she vouched to warrant the said Gilbert, and Hawise his wife. (Yorks. Assize Roll, No. 1039, m. 3.)

OMNIBUS Christi fidelibus, etc., Johannes Romanus, Archidiaconus Richmundiæ, salutem in Domino. Noverit universitas vestra nos divinæ pietatis et caritatis intuitu compacientes paupertati Abbatis et Conventus de Cokersand, eorum jure considerato et plenius intellecto cum ordinationi nostræ commisissent ecclesiam de Gairstang cum suis pertinentiis, ipsam eis in proprios usus confirmasse; habendam sibi et successoribus suis inperpetuum in usus pauperum et hospitem et utilitatem domus ejusdem; salva vicaria per eos conferenda nobis et successoribus nostris vicarium præsentando; eadem vicaria in hunc modum taxata, videlicet, ut vicarius nomine vicariæ inperpetuum habeat et recipiat omnimodas decimas tam majores quam minores et omnimodos proventus quocumque nomine censeantur tocius villæ de Clacton, ad quam villam spectant Heyham, Dounanesherg. Et de eadem villa habebit cum pertinentiis vicarius omnes obventiones¹ et oblationes tam vivorum quam mortuorum. Habebit etiam vicarius liberam communam [fol. 52.] suam in bosco de Gairstang, et de Kirkelund, cum medietate decimarum pannagii de Kirkelund. Præterea idem vicarius qui pro tempore fuerit, inperpetuum habebit et percipiet omnes oblationes tocius parochiæ de Gairstang spectantes ad tres solempnes festivitates singulis annis, scilicet, ad Natale, ad Pascha, et ad sollempne festum matricis ecclesiæ cum omnibus dicto vicario et capellano suo legatis, denariis missalibus, anualibus, tritennialibus privatis beneficiis, et cum omnibus aliis consuetis et minutis obventionibus debitis ratione vigiliarum mortuorum et sponsalium. Dicitur verò vicarius honestè faciet divina celebrari in ecclesia de Gairstang et omnia ordinaria Archidiaconalia debita et consueta ad dictam ecclesiam spectantia sustinebit. Idem verò vicarius singulis annis in villis suis supradictis colliget denarios beati Petri et de illis respondebit Archidiacono loci pro porcione sua, sicut Abbas et Conventus respondebunt pro porcione sua. In cujus rei testimonium huic scripto sigillum nostrum apposuimus.

To all the faithful of Christ, &c., John Romaine, Archdeacon of Richmond, greeting in the Lord. Be it known to all that we, for the sake of the Divine compassion and love, commiserating the poverty of the Abbot and Convent of Cockersand, and having considered and more fully understood their right, when they committed to our disposal the church of Garstang with its appurtenances, have confirmed the same to be held by them and their successors for ever, for the service of the poor and of hospitality, and the profit of the aforesaid house: saving to us and to our successors, the vicarage to be conferred by them, by the presentation of a Vicar; the said vicarage being rated in the following manner: to wit, that the Vicar, by title of his vicarage, shall have and receive for all time all manner of tithes, both greater and lesser, and all manner of revenues, under whatsoever name they may be collected, from the whole town of Claughton, to which town belong Downaneshargh¹ and Heyham.² And from the said town and its appurtenances the Vicar shall have all fees and offerings both for the living and the dead. The Vicar shall also have his common right in the wood of Garstang and of Kirkland, with the half of the tithes of the pannage of Kirkland. Moreover, the said Vicar, who for the time shall be, shall have and receive in perpetuity all offerings of the entire parish of Garstang, made at the three solemn festivals of each year, namely, Christmas, Easter, and the patronal feast of the Mother Church, with all bequests made to the said Vicar or his Chaplain, mass-pennies, anniversaries, trentals, personal emoluments, and with all other customary and smaller fees, due by reason of vigils of the dead or of marriages. And the said Vicar shall cause the Divine Service to be duly celebrated, and shall pay all the ordinary Archdeaconal charges, customary and due pertaining to the said church. The said Vicar shall also collect every year, in his aforesaid towns, the St. Peter's pence, and shall be answerable to the Archdeacon of the place for his portion, even as the Abbot and Convent shall be answerable for their portion. And be it known that the said Vicar shall have a suitable manse near the graveyard of the said church, which manse is called Philiptoft. He shall also have one oxgang of land in the town-fields of Garstang with the appurtenances, exempt from payment of all tithes, both greater and lesser, and one manse with the meadow belonging thereto, and with all the other liberties and easements belonging to the said oxgang. Saving to us and to our successors the claims¹ and pence of St. Peter, wholly without [any] diminution, in the entire parish of the aforesaid church. [s.D. March, 1241.]²

UNIVERSIS Christi fidelibus præsens scriptum, [inspecturis] etc., Walterus, Dei gratia Ebor. Archiepiscopus, Angliæ Primas, salutem, gratiam et benedictionem. Noveritis nos cartam dilecti filii Johannis Archidiaconi Richemundiæ super ordinacionem vicariæ ecclesiæ de Gairstang inspexisse, sub hac forma.

Omnibus Christi fidelibus hoc scriptum visuris vel auditoris, Johannes Romanus, etc., usque ad finem, de verbo ad verbum. Nos igitur dictam ordinacionem prout canonicè facta est ratam

² The ordinance of the vicarial church of Garstang delivered by John Romaine, Archdeacon of Richmond (1241-1256), was duly confirmed by a Bull of Pope Gregory IX., given on page 25 of this work. The date given to the copy preserved in the Chartulary is evidently incorrect, for John Romaine was not appointed to the Archdeaconry of Richmond until the year 1241. With reference to this Bull, the Very Rev. Canon Moyes, D.D., writes: "Gregory IX. was elected on the 19th March, 1227. The date of the Bull, xiii. kal. Maij = 19th April. This in the fifteenth year of his Pontificate would be 1241. On the 19th April, 1241, Gregory IX. was certainly at the Lateran, for, two days before, viz. 17th April, he sent a mandate to the Archdeacon, precentor and Chancellor of York, about a Galloway case; and on the 18th April (the day before the date of the Bull) he sent a mandate to the Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry in the case of the Abbot of Croyland. (Abstracts of both are given in the Calendar of Papal Letters, vol. i. p. 196.) This Bull probably came over with the same courier as those above mentioned, or was part of the same English business dispatched at the time."

The confirmation of the Dean and Chapter of York follows on p. 288.

habentes et gratam: eam auctoritate pontificali confirmamus. Quod ut ratum et stabile in posterum perseveret: præsens scriptum sigilli nostri munimine duximus roborandum. Actum Eboraco, viij Idus Maii, pontificatus nostri anno tricesimo.

To all the faithful of Christ [who will behold] these presents, Walter Gray, by the grace of God Archbishop of York, Primate of England, health, grace, and benediction.

Be it known to you that we have examined a document of our beloved son John [Romaine], Archdeacon of Richmond, upon the ordinance of the vicarial church of Garstang, in the following terms: "To all the faithful of Christ who shall behold or hear this writing," and so on word for word until the end. Wherefore we, accepting the said ordinance, inasmuch as it is canonically made, as settled and agreeable, have confirmed the same by episcopal authority. And that it may henceforth continue firm and ratified, we have armed these presents with the authority of our seal. Done at York, the eighth Ides of May, in the thirtieth year of our Pontificate. [25th May, 1245.]

Fine¹ levied in the Court of the King at Lancaster, at three weeks from Michaelmas, 30 Henry III. [20th October, 1246], &c. Between Henry, Abbot of Cockersand and parson of the church of Garstang, plaintiff, and Jordan, son of Torphin, tenant, respecting one oxgang and six acres of land in Garstang. A jury had been summoned between them in the said Court, as to whether the said land was frankalmoign belonging to the said Abbot's church of Garstang, or the lay fee of the said Jordan. ² William de Lancaster II., who lived 1170–1184, gave two oxgangs of land in Winmarleigh to Hervey, the falconer. At the date of the Survey of A.D. 1212, this land was held by Hugh de Winmarleigh, the Hugh, son of Hervey of the above charter. By his wife Alice, he had a son William, (No. 9) who probably died young. From 1240–1260, Gregory de Winmarleigh occurs, and Roger his son and heir, (No. 5) and his wife Avice, occur in a Fine levied in 1262. (Lancaster Fines, No. 169.) A John de Winmarleigh also occurs in 1257. (Escheats.)

³ Glans, acorn, hence "glandage," old French, meaning the liberty of sending swine into the forest to feed upon the mast (persona). The payment made to the lord for this liberty was called "Pannage" (pannagium).

Composition made on Tuesday next before the feast of St. Lawrence [5th August], 1320, between the Abbot and Convent of the Abbey of St. Mary de Pré, of Leicester, and Lady Christiana de Lindsay,¹ widow of Ingram de Gynes, respecting common of pasture, which the said Abbot claimed to have throughout the fee of the said Lady Christiana in Wyresdale,—in modification of the concord previously made in a plea moved between them—whereby the said Lady Christiana, for the health of her soul, and the souls of her husband, father, and mother, and all her ancestors, confirmed and remitted all her right in the Manor of ¹ After the death of William de Lancaster III., on 28th November, 1246, his estates descended to the representatives of his sisters, Hawise, the wife of Peter de Brus, and Alice, the wife of William de Lindsay. A third sister, Serota, the wife of Alan de Multon, died without issue of her body. (Furness Coucher, p. 368.) Peter, son and heir of Peter and Hawise de Brus, was of full age at the death of William de Lancaster, and he had livery of his moiety of the Barony of Kendal, and of Ulverston, Garstang, and Warton, by writ dated 20th February, 1247. Walter, son and heir of William and Alice de Lindsay, being only sixteen years of age, did not obtain livery until later. He died 2nd November, 1271, as appears by the Inquisition made in full County Court of Westmorland, on the feast of the Epiphany (6th January), 1272, when it was found that William, son and heir of the said Walter, had contracted a marriage, by his father's consent, with Ada, daughter of John de Baliol, about Whitsuntide, 1267 (sic), and that he was aged 21 years at the Nativity of St. John Baptist (24th June), 1271. (Escheats, 56 Henry III., No. 61.) In the 3rd Edward I., Walter de Percy of Kildale, co. York, paid a fine of 80 marks for having married Christiana, widow of Walter de Lindsay, without the King's consent. (Originalia, 3 Edward I., Rot. 19.) By writ dated at Rhuddlan, 10th November, 1282, Thomas de Normanvill, Escheator beyond Trent, was directed to take into the King's hands the lands of which William de Lindsay died seised. (Originalia, 10 Edward I., Rot. 19.) By Inquisition made subsequently, it was found that Christiana was daughter and next heir of Sir William de Lindsay, and aged 16 years at the Annunciation of the Virgin Mary, 11 Edward I. (25th March, 1283); and also that Christiana, mother of the said Sir William, had been endowed with lands in Troutbeck, Applethwaite, and Windermere, which she had demised to him during her life. (Escheat, 11 Edward I., No. 36*b*.) Christiana, the daughter and heiress, had been married to Ingram de Gynes, Lord of Courcy in France, who, doing fealty for her inheritance, had livery the same year. (Fine Roll, 11 Edward I., m. 14.) By writ of diem clausit extremum, dated at Westminster, 25th March, 17 Edward II., 1324, John de Bolingbroke, Escheator in counties Warwick, Leicester, Notts., Derby, and Lancaster, was directed to make an Inquisition after the death of Ingram de Gynes, which was accordingly held at Warton, on the eve of the Ascension, 17 Edward II. (23rd May, 1324), when it was found that he held certain lands in the county of Lancaster of the right and inheritance of Christiana, daughter and heiress of William de Lindsay, and that she was then surviving. (Escheats, 17 Edward II., No. 60.) The pedigree of de Lindsay, founded upon that given in the Furness Coucher, p. 395, and accepted by most historians, is quite impossible, for it makes Christiana de Gynes, who was born in 1267, the grand-daughter of William de Lindsay, who was only born in 1250!

Cockerham, the Church of Cockerham, and Chapel of Ellel, and Crimbles both this side and beyond Cocker, to the said church of St. Mary de Pré of Leicester, with all their lands and tenements lying within the following bounds, to wit, between the moss of the said Abbot and Convent, and the land of the lord of Harrington,¹ including within a circuit the Bank house and Thursland,² as far as the four oaks, thence to Michael's ford in Cocker, following Cocker to Eskbeck,³ following Eskbeck to the cross which marks the division between the said Abbot's lordship and Winmarleigh wood, thence over the ley of Lathwaite⁴ to Great Pool,⁵ thence to Mossbreck, following the same on the western side to Otter Pool Sty,⁶ through the moss to Drybirches, thence to Crawlache,⁷ and thence to Pilling water,⁸ and so down to the sea. Saving to the Lady Christiana and her heirs the abode of four monks dwelling there in the manner and form that has anciently been used.

And the said Abbot and Convent have granted to the said Lady Christiana and her heirs, common of pasture in all lands assarted and improved from the wastes at the day of the making of this composition, beyond Wyre, both eastward and southward. Saving to them and their men of Cockerham the eatage of grass and oakmast at the time of mast-fall for their own and their dependent's pigs, with free access and egress year by year from Michaelmas to Martinmas, in all the woods over Wyre eastward and southward, only excepting Wyresdale Park, as it lies inclosed on the day of the making hereof. And have further granted that the said Lady Christiana and her heirs may make assarts and improvements in the woods and wastes beyond Wyre at their will, notwithstanding the said grazing and mast-fall, and may possess and enjoy all lands assarted and improved on this side Wyre on the day of the making of this indenture, except five acres and a half and twenty falls of land, to wit—in Eskhouth two acres, in Cabus two acres and eight falls of land, in Birchams half an acre and eight falls of land, in Little Nateby six falls of land, and in Holleth one acre of land, which have been improved within forty years before the making of this deed.

The Lady Christiana further granted for herself and her heirs, that the woods and wastes on this side Wyre, as well as the said five acres and a half and twenty-four falls of land, shall henceforth lie open for pasture for all the said Abbot's cattle, and those of his men of Cockerham at all times of the year, and that their cattle shall depasture freely in all places assarted and improved on this side Wyre, after hay time and harvest in each year without hindrance, and that she and her heirs shall not hereafter in any wise make improvements in the said woods, wastes, and ground on this side Wyre, westward and northward, and that the driving ways and roads to the said pasturage, which are of insufficient width, shall straightway be increased to the width of sixty feet; and that the said Abbot and Convent shall have liberty to construct swine folds when and where they will in divers places when they have need of them for their swine in the woods and wastes of the said Lady Christiana on this side Wyre, westward and northward, provided that each hogsty shall not exceed twenty feet either way, and they shall have liberty to take by the view of her forester for the time being, dead wood, either elm or willow, wherewith to construct such hogsty, or to repair the same when there is need, but without causing waste of the said woods. Moreover, if it shall happen that any cattle or swine of the Abbot's, or of his men of Cockerham, by straying shall enter the corn-fields or meadows of the Lady Christiana either this side Wyre or beyond, and cause injury, they shall be driven out without any impounding thereof or other annoyance, or in case they shall be driven maliciously into such places or confined therein by the herdsman, they shall be duly taken and set at liberty, or the loss made good according to form of law.

And the said Abbot and Convent have remitted to the said Lady Christiana and her heirs all right which they have, or in any wise by any act of her ancestors shall or might have, in common of pasture in Lonsdale, northward beyond Lancaster. Saving to themselves and their successors common of pasture in her fee due to them between Cockerham and Lancaster. Provided always that no right of making improvements, assarts, or inclosures, or of continuing to hold assarts or improvements, or of holding or acquiring any further advantage in any places soever on this side Wyre northward and westward, or beyond Wyre eastward and southward, shall accrue or be able to accrue henceforth by virtue of this deed of quitclaim to any other person than to the said Lady Christiana and her heirs.

Indenture of an agreement made on Thursday next before the feast of St. Luke the Evangelist, A.D. 1327, between the Lady Christiana de Lindsay as tenant, of the one part, and the Abbot and Convent of Cockersand, plaintiffs, of the other part, concerning the said monks' common rights and reasonable estovers to be taken within the town of Garstang, by virtue of any act of the ancestors of the said Lady Christiana; to wit, that the said Lady Christiana in her pure viduity and with full power, granted to the said Abbot and Convent, and to their successors and tenants, common of pasture for their beasts, on both sides of Wyre, and reasonable estovers, to wit, Housebote and Haybote, to be taken by the view of the Foresters, without causing distruction or waste. And the said Abbot and Convent, for themselves and their successors, granted and quitclaimed to the said Lady Christiana, and to her heirs and assigns, all lands and tenements which had been assarted or improved in that town, on either side of Wyre, at the date of the making of this writing indented; and that she and her successors might at their will make assarts and improvements southward and eastward across the river Wyre, without contradiction or impediment of them or their successors; and further that if the said Lady Christiana, her heirs or assigns, should be impleaded, disturbed, or in anywise seriously molested, by reason of this agreement, by her parceners, or by the free tenants of the Manor of Wyresdale, that they, the said Abbot and Convent, having consulted with the said Lady Christiana, would at their own costs hold her, her heirs or assigns, entirely indemnified.

Ivo Taillebois begat Eldred, Eldred begat Ketel, Ketel begat Gilbert, Gilbert begat William ; which William obtained the King's licence to be called William de Lancaster, and to be summoned before the King in Parliament as William de Lancaster, Baron of Kendal. Which ¹ This genealogy of "de Lancaster" has been condemned by Mr. Hodgson Hinde, as being "a fictitious pedigree." (Pipe Rolls of Cumberland and Westmorland, Introduction, p. xlv.) It is undoubtedly so in a number of important details, as for instance in describing Eldred as the son of Ivo Taillebois, and Christiana de Lindsay as great-great-grand-daughter of Alice de Lancaster. (See note, p. 301.) The latter mistake does not appear in the genealogy of "de Lancaster" preserved in the Register of the Abbey of St. Mary, in York, which is also fuller than that which is given above, and is therefore reproduced here.

Stemma Ivonis de Tayleboyse.

Primo fuit Ivo Tayleboyse, qui genuit Eltredum ; iste Eltredus genuit Ketellum ; iste Ketellus genuit Gilbertum, dictum filium Ketelli. Iste Gilbertus genuit Willielmum primum, dictum de Lancastre, et habuit uxorem, scilicet Gundredam comitissam de Warwik. De isto Willielmo et Gundreda venit Willielmus secundus. Iste Willielmus secundus habuit uxorem Helewisiam de Stotewill ; de qua genuit filiam, nomine Helewisiam tantum, quæ fuit maritata Gilberto filio Rogeri, filii Rainefridi. Isti habuerunt unum filium, quem cognominaverunt Willielmum de Lancastre, et fuit tertius et ultimus ; qui habuit uxorem Agnetem de Brus, et non habuerunt hæredem de se. Sed iste Willielmus tertius habuit tres sorores, Helewisiam primogenitam, quæ fuit maritata Petro de Brus seniori ; Alicia quæ fuit maritata Willielmo de Lindsay, et Serotam, quæ fuit maritata Alano de Multona. Ista tertia obiit sine hærede, et terræ partitæ sunt inter prædictas sorores. De prædicto Petro seniore exiit Petrus junior, qui habuit quatuor sorores. Iste Petrus junior obiit sine hærede, et hæreditas partita fuit inter prædictas sorores ; quarum prima maritata fuit Roberto de Ros domino de Werke ; secunda Waltero de Faucunberge ; tertia Marmaduco de Twenge ; quarta domino Johanne Belewe. De Willielmo de Lindsaye et Alicia prædicta exit Walterus ; de Waltero Willielmus ; de Willielmo, Christiana. (Reg. Abb. S. Mariae, Ebor., fol. 124.)

Ivo Taillebois possessed a large estate in Westmorland, which was afterwards known as the "Barony of Kendal," and also the Manor of Morland, afterwards held as of the Barony of Kendal, including Great and Little Strickland, Thrimby, Newby and Slegill, and a moiety of the Manor of Kirkby Stephen and Winton. He also held lands in Copeland, Furness, Lonsdale, and in the wapentake of Stainmoor, co. York. These lands were granted to him by William Rufus in the year 1188, and included portions of the escheated fiefs of Roger the Poitevin and Gospatric Earl of Northumberland. There seems no reason to doubt that Ivo had issue by a former wife, previous to his marriage to the Countess Lucy, because his Cumberland and Westmorland estates did not descend to the issue of the second marriage. The absurdity, however, of the monkish pedigree, which makes Eldred the son of Ivo, is shown by the fact that Ketel, son of Eldred, was a benefactor to the Abbey of St.

William took to wife Gundreda, Countess of Warwick; of whom was born William de Lancaster II., who took to wife Hawise; of whom was born Hawise, their daughter and heir. Which Hawise took for her husband Gilbert fitz Reinfred, of whom was born William de Lancaster III., who died without issue; afterwards Hawise took for her husband Peter de Brus, the elder, of whom two daughters, Alice and Sarot, were born.

Mary, at York, contemporaneously with Ivo; and Ketel's son, Orm, was a witness to Roger the Poitevin's grant of the church of Lancaster, &c., to the Abbey of St. Martin of Seèz in the year 1094! This latter fact also makes it highly improbable that Orm, son of Ketel, could have been a brother of Gilbert de Lancaster. However that may be, between 1088 and 1093, Ivo granted to the Abbey of St. Mary, in York, a moiety of the lordship and church of Kirkby Stephen, the churches of Kirkby Kendal, Heversham, and Kirkby Lonsdale, with the land and common rights appurtenant thereto, the town of Hutton Roof, the church of Beetham, land called Haverbrack, the church of Burton in Kendal with one carucate of land and common rights, and the church of Clapham with one carucate of land. (Monasticon, vol. iii. p. 553.)

About the same time Ketel, son of Eldred, granted to the same Abbey the church of Morland, with three carucates of land; the church of Workington with two carucates; the town of Preston Patrick with wood and other appurtenances. To the Hospital of St. Leonard, in York, Ketel also gave land in Newby, co. Westmorland, and the land of Kirkby Kendal. William de Lancaster I., in the reign of Stephen or Henry II., exchanged the latter for land called Docker-garth, near Kendal, and also gave the same Hospital two carucates of land in Barton Head, also afterwards exchanged for the said Docker-garth. All these grants to St. Mary of York, and the exchange of land with the Hospital of St. Leonard, were afterwards confirmed by Gilbert fitz Reinfred and Hawise his wife, daughter and heir of William de Lancaster II., about the end of the 12th century. (Monasticon, vol. vi. p. 613.)

After Ivo's death, Henry I. gave the lordship of Carlisle and the Baronies of Egremont and Appleby—to which last-named Barony Kirkby Stephen and Winton belonged, as members of the Manor of Brough—to Ranulph Meschin. But Ivo's estates were retained by the King for some time, and then the Westmorland and Yorkshire portions were given to Nigel de Albini, father of Roger de Mowbray (who was in ward to the King in 1130-1). The estate in Copeland was held of the Barony of Egremont, and that in Furness of the Honor of Lancaster. It is impossible to say who was the mesne tenant during the first forty years of the 12th century, but I would suggest—as being the most probable solution of the relationship between Ivo Taillebois and Gilbert de Lancaster—that Ivo's elder daughter Beatrice, by his first wife, had a daughter—possibly by Ribaud, Lord of Middleham, co. York,—who became the wife of a certain Gilbert, who may have been the father of William de Lancaster I. (Genealogist, N.S., vol. v. p. 65; vol. viii. p. 89.)

Ketel, son of Eldred, held his Copeland and Westmorland estates under Ivo, and they descended to his grandson Gospatric, son of Orm, who held under William de Lancaster I. During the reign of King Stephen, Roger de Mowbray converted the tenure of the Barony of Kendal into knight's service, I suppose in lieu of cornage service, and in the return of knight's fees made in 1166, William de Lancaster I. appears as holding the Barony of Kendal of Roger de Mowbray by the service of two knight's fees of new feoffment.

Of Gilbert very little is known, except that he had two sons, William, and Gilbert, father of Warin the Falconer, ancestor of the family of Lee. (See under FORTON, postea.) William de Lancaster I. appears to have been in high favour with William, Count of Boulogne and Mortain, Earl of Warren and Lord of Lancaster, who had acquired the Earldom of Warren by marriage with Isabel, only daughter and heiress of William, third Earl of Warren, and the Honor of Lancaster by confirmation of King Afterwards Alice took for her husband William de Lindsay; and Sarot, Alan de Multon; of which Sarot nothing further, because she died without heir. Of Alice and William de Lindsay was born Walter; of Walter de Lindsay, William; of William, William; of the second William, Christiana de Lindsay, who took for her husband Ingram de Gynes.

Henry II., as his rightful inheritance. (See Lancashire Pipe Rolls.) Earl William, or Henry II., married William de Lancaster to Gundreda, sister of William, third Earl of Warren, and widow of Roger, Earl of Warwick, who died 12th June, 1153, and at the same time appears to have enfeoffed him of one knight's fee in Ulverston, Warton and Garstang, an important estate of 36½ carucates of land. It was doubtless at this time that the surname of Lancaster was assumed, with the licence of his chief lord and the King. About this time he gave the Manor of Cockerham to the Abbey of St. Mary de Pré, in Leicester, which grant King Henry II. confirmed at Dover, 2nd-10th January, 1156. The year following, by the style of William, son of Gilbert, he made an agreement with the monks of Furness respecting the partition of Furness Fells between them, which Henry II. confirmed by a charter which passed at Woodstock, circa September, 1157, witnessed by (inter alios) Gospatric, son of Orm, son of Ketel. Some years later, with the consent of his son and heir William, he confirmed to Gospatrick, son of Orm, the whole estate in Copeland, which the latter held of him hereditarily, to wit, the towns of Workington and Lamplough—which latter the said William had given in exchange for the town of Middleton in Lonsdale—to hold by the yearly render of a pair of gilt spurs, or sixpence payable at Carlisle Fair, and doing suit for him at Egremont Castle. (Trans. Cumb. and Westmorl. A. and A. Soc., vol. v. p. 312.) He died circa 1170. William de Lancaster II., who succeeded to the Barony, died in 1184, leaving issue by Hawise, daughter of Robert de Stutevill of Lazenby, an only daughter Hawise, who was given in marriage by King Richard at Rouen, on the 20th July, 1189 (Benedict, ii. f. 73), to Gilbert, son of Roger fitz Reinfred. The said Gilbert, as already stated above, confirmed Ivo Taillebois' grants to the Abbey of St. Mary of York, referring to Ivo in the confirmation as his ancestor, i.e., predecessor. By charter dated at York, 15th April, 1190, King Richard granted and confirmed to him the whole forest of Westmorland, Kendal, and Furness, and six librates of land in Kendal, to hold in fee as freely as William de Lancaster I., son of Gilbert, and Nigel de Albini had held the same. APPENDIX.

After the present volume was in print, the Editor found transcripts of a number of charters relating to Amounderness, in Christopher Towneley's Lancashire Evidences, now preserved in the British Museum, Additional MSS. 32,104. A number of charters from which Towneley made transcripts had not been entered in the Chartulary by Robert de Lachford. In other cases, where transcripts had been made, only the additions preserved by Towneley, such as the names of the witnesses, are given below.

[Add. MSS. 32,104, f. 268 b. Preesall Charter No. 3, p. 68.]

Sciant omnes tam præsentis quam futuri, quod ego Galfridus Arbalastarius dedi et concessi et præsentis Carta confirmavi Deo et Beatæ Mariæ de Cokersont et fratribus ibidem Deo servientibus, duas acras terræ meæ in Preshou, scilicet in Campo quod vocatur Kirkegate, propinquiores terræ quam Abbas de ffurnes de me tenuit ad firmam, cum comunione et aisiamentis tantæ terræ pertinentibus; in puram et perpetuam et liberam elemosinam, liberè et quietè ab omni exactione seculari et servitio, pro salute animæ meæ et sponsæ meæ Wimarkæ et antecessorum et successorum meorum. Hanc autem donationem ego Galfridus et hæredes mei warrantizabimus prædictis fratribus contra omnes homines et feminas imperpetuum. ¹ It is evident from a comparison of this transcript with that contained in the Chartulary (page 114), that Christopher Towneley omitted certain details—such as a description of the land, which was the subject of the grant, and the boundaries,—while Robert de Lachford omitted other details, which were given by Towneley—such as the style of the religious house, &c., and the names of the witnesses. By means of the two transcripts it is possible to re-construct the original charter almost word for word.

The possession of the witnesses' names has rendered it necessary to modify, in several instances, the approximate date previously appended to the charters.
